A prisoner is told he can escape execution if he is able to read out the words of a psalm. But he has never learned to read. Will the nun Judith, who lost her own brother to the same harsh medieval law, decide to help him? First heard on BBC Radio Four, this moving play has implications for the relationship between church and state, both then and now. Minimal staging.

Witness

Full Length Play

General/Easter Theme, flexible cast

A stage version of the award-winning series of radio plays broadcast on BBC Radio 4, Witness chronicles the story of Jesus as told by St Luke.

The first half deals with the ministry in Galilee and the journey to Jerusalem. The second half concentrates on Holy Week.

A full-length play with a modern setting, it has a large cast, but many of these roles can be doubled and some can be played as either male or female. It is possible to present individual scenes or play the two halves of the play separately; the second half being particularly suitable for Easter.
